Sea's the Moment

A beachy escape from daily life is something everyone has thought of at least once or twice, especially in the cold winter months. And while we can't all be beach bums, many make that dream more of a reality by bringing the coast into the home, and those with beach properties go all-out for a seafaring theme. As consumers gear up for their summer vacations, remind them of their favorite spot by creating a coastal display complete with seashells and sand and let the products do the rest. — T.L.
