

> home

Tactile Relaxation

Decorative pillows can be more than a place to rest your head—for those who need something to do with their hands while they relax, pillows that provide a tactile experience aren't hard to come by. Whether a design is with tassels, beads, fur, flowers or the ever-popular sequins that let consumers create their own designs, there's something for everyone. Adding signs for customers that let them know that it's O.K. to touch can create an experience that will delight. —T.L.

A vintage rose fluffy pillow makes a fuzzy nap all the more restful. Eightmood. eightmood.com
CIRCLE #617

The Scattered Purple Magic Sequin pillow is irresistible to play with, letting consumers swipe their hands across to show different colors. Fashion Angels. fashionangels.com
CIRCLE #618

The Secret Garden collection features pillows with their own blooms right on the front. Bethany Lowe Designs. bethanylowe.com
CIRCLE #619

The Black Swan Fringe pillow doesn't sacrifice comfort but keeps hands busy. A Homestead Shoppe. ahomesteadshoppe.com
CIRCLE #620

The Nebaj Pillow is handmade within a two-week period with decorative elements that represent the cultural identity of the weaver who made it. Behind the Hill. behindthehill.com
CIRCLE #621